SY Holdings LLC sees Managed.com as a perfect fit for its customer support oriented business models

For Immediate Release:

OMAHA, Neb. (February 20, 2015) — SY Holdings LLC, a holding company that has more than 25 years of experience with software businesses and personal high-end support centers, has acquired Managed.com. Headquartered in Omaha, Neb., Managed.com is a leading provider of content management system (CMS) optimized platforms for small businesses and enterprise-level clients. Started by Tony Valenti in 2001, the company's focus was founded on the service and support of the CMS platform DotNetNuke (DNN). The company's name changed from PowerDNN to Managed.com in 2014 to reflect a broader CMS platform commitment.

Following a steadfast customer support oriented business model, Managed.com was born from a desire to take the complexities out of infrastructure and website management. The company's philosophy is that website and server management can be accomplished by people with extreme technical proficiency, in an environment where the customer is treated like a person and given the best support possible.

"Managed.com possesses a distinct expertise in the business infrastructure and web hosting segment, a rapidly expanding market that represents a tremendous growth opportunity," said JR Brooks, managing director of SY Holdings. "With Managed.com having very similar values and beliefs, this acquisition enables SY Holdings to build a new division of our company that supports our dedication to creating unparalleled information systems, support, and services across multiple industries."

Managed.com will continue to operate out of its Omaha headquarters under the same leadership team. Goals are to continue to enhance, grow, and focus on their customer base and to provide the highest level of customer support, dedicated experts, and fully managed solutions.

"I have worked hard the past decade to nurture my brand and am thrilled that we have a new home with SY Holdings," said Tony Valenti, founder and president of Managed.com. "SY Holdings has a proven track record of helping established companies achieve their full potential while staying true to the core of the brand."
